Hello,

   My name is Byron Wall, and I am interested in the Front End Develpoer role you have posted on glassdoor.com. I am a developer who is well versed in non-frameworked and frameworked JavaScript. On the front end I use AngularJS regularly, and am very excited about the data visualization capabilities that libraries such as D3.js offer. On the back end I have experience in using JavaScript and the MEAN stack.

   I believe very strongly in developing full-stack software that displays large amounts of data in a way that is immediately intuitive, and I consistently strive to create user interfaces that meet every use case. There is so much power in the amount of data we are able to collect, and to be able to display that data in meaningful - and indeed beautiful- ways both excites and inspires me.

   I place a very high value on solving problems and learning as much as possible to arrive at the best solutions, and believe that 3 Birds can offer a great environment in which to do so. Therefore, I believe that I would be a good fit for Front End Developer role that you are currently hiring for. Please take a look at my portfolio and resume at:

Thank you for your consideration, and I hope to hear from you soon.
